Budgeting Essentials Workshop

Duration: 90 minutes

Aims

This workshop aims to help learners understand how to create a budget and the benefits of doing so.

Resources:

Workshop Facilitator Guide x 1 copy [This document]

Slides x 1 copy [Budgeting Essentials PPT]

Workbook x 1 copy per learner [Budgeting Essentials WB]

Calculators, pens

Projector and speakers (if you plan to play the video)

Learning Objectives

By the end of this workshop learners should be able to:

- Explain what we mean by the term "budget" and explore the benefits
- Create a budget
- Explore the types of online budgeting tools available
- List the benefits of having emergency money

Trainer briefing

This training guide has been written to be used by both experienced trainers and those for whom training delivery is new. We appreciate the resources available to you to deliver the training can vary greatly, from online delivery, delivery in a community space or delivery in-branch. We have tried to take all situations into account but if you need to vary the delivery of activities to meet the available resources then please feel free to do so.

Learners

When delivering this training remember the learners come from all walks of life. For some learners, English is a second language so they may struggle or need help from family members, even children, during the session. This training may bring up some personal feelings for the learners, for example, those for whom money is tight. This might result in some emotions during the course. Encourage them to take a break if they need to. There are some frequently asked questions at the end of this guide to help you deal with any tricky situations.

Guide Format

The guide is written as though you are speaking directly to the learners, although this gives an idea of what to say, it's important to inject your personality into the training to make it authentic. You will also notice there are 'Facilitator notes' which give you tips on how to run an activity as well as sections labelled as 'Look for'; these give the ideal answer and are there to help you guide the learner to the correct answer.

Workbook

The workbook that accompanies this training has lots of space for learners to make their own notes as they go through the session. It also contains anything needed for an exercise, meaning you can run this session without the slides if necessary. Towards the back of the workbook is a section explaining any banking terminology, useful links and details of charities that can offer support. Encourage the learners to take the workbook home with them.

Exercises

The exercises in this workshop are to be undertaken at your discretion, if you think a particular exercise isn't relevant or may confuse your learners then feel free to exclude or replace it.

Before you start		Before the session, you might like to have these weblinks set up, to show the learners during the session: https://www.moneyhelper.org.uk/en/everyday-money/budgeting/budget-planner Also, look through the scenarios (from Ishan through to Sam). Decide which of these match your audience. Pick 1 ‘income’ (Ishan’s story) plus 1 ‘outgoings’ example (Beth and / or Alek) AND/OR pick 1 ‘full budget’ example (Jo, Tony, Marc and Sam) – you may decide to include more than 1, depending on your audience needs. Note that Marc and Sam’s budget activities refer to the Workbook. For Jo and Tony, the activities aren’t in the workbook, but can be worked through together as a group (the ‘answer’ slides follow the ‘question’ slides for each part of these activities).
Pages 3 - 4		Facilitator note: Introduce yourself – state your role today and how you plan to help them, plus, what they would like to get out of the session. Let them know this is a safe space to ask questions about money. Encourage them to ask about terms or practices they are unclear on.

		Ask: Where could this come from? Look for: Wages Pension Benefits Child maintenance Facilitator note: Use flipchart / whiteboard to note answers and/or use the space in their workbooks. For online sessions, encourage them to use the chat box for their suggestions.  CLICK TO REVEAL THE ANSWERS
Page 5		Facilitator Note: Show the slide about Ishan and read out his scenario: Ishan is struggling to work out his budget because he works for a delivery company and has a different income each month. Ishan is the only wage earner at home. Some months he struggles to pay his bills whilst other months he has extra money left over. He'd like to start putting away money towards an emergency fund for months when he isn't paid enough to meet all his outgoings. How could Ishan calculate his average monthly income?

Total of all 3 months	3,300

Ishan's calculations
Date	Income in £	Date	Income in £
January	800	Total of all 3 months	3,300
February	1,500	Divide that by the number of months (3)	3,300 / 3
March	1,000	Average	1,100
Total of all 3 months	3,300

Ishan's average income per month is £1,100

Explain:

You may have irregular income, such as that shown by Ishan.

To calculate his income, he will have to add together 3 or 6 months' worth of earnings and then divide that figure by the number of months used.

Let's work through this example:
(at this point, you can mention all these details are in their workbooks, so they can follow from there if they prefer / can't see the screen)

He earns £800 in January.

Then he earns £1,500 in February.

And in March, he earns £1000.

Added together these come to a total of £3,300.

Now, looking on the right of the screen, we start with that total for all 3 months. And we divide that by the number of months used to calculate the total) – that's 3 – to give the average.

So Ishan has an average income of £1,100.

Sam has more outgoings than incoming. In a bid to correct this, she managed to reduce her outgoings by undertaking the following actions: First, she used a comparison site to help her switch her energy supplier. Looking through her budget she spotted a magazine subscription she no longer used so she cancelled that. She then reduced her food spending by switching supermarkets and signed up for their loyalty programme to give her discounts. She asked to reduce the payment plan for her debts. Finally, she looked to see if she was eligible for further government support through charities such as Turn2Us.

		Explain: Now let's look at online tools that can help you budget. And by the end of this section, you should be able to: Explore the types of online budgeting tools available.
Page 9		Ask: Did you know that there are online tools that can help you calculate your budget? Explain: There are online budgeting tools which can help you. These do the calculations and can make suggestions to help you save money. You will have to learn how to use them, but in the long term, they may help you save money and time in a way that pen and paper can't. These kinds of tools can be found on most bank websites. They can also be found on services like Money Helper. This is an example of government-approved, trusted organisations that provide advice and guidance on a wide range of issues. Facilitator Note If you have access to the internet show Money Helper website. https://www.moneyhelper.org.uk/en/everyday-money/budgeting/budget-planner If you have time you could start to walk the learners through the money helper budget tool.

You will need to learn how to use them, although they usually offer readymade budgeting templates. Once you do, you can use them to create sheets that will automatically calculate your budget for you. So, you can easily change the amounts in your income or outgoings as they change each month. The spreadsheet will then automatically calculate your budget and tell you the new balance. Why not take a look at your device's app store. Check out their money category. Here, you'll find some recommended and commonly used apps which may be able to help you to budget . Always check the apps, websites and tools are well-reviewed, safe and trusted. For instance, look at reviews on your device's app store. Sometimes, the best way to find out what tools are good is to ask the people you trust for recommendations based on which tools they use too.

		Explain: Other things to consider when choosing a tool are: How much do you want to spend? Some apps are free, and some will cost. Ask yourself if they're worth the added cost Are they safe? Do you want to share your financial information with them or connect them to your bank account? If you do, are they well-reviewed and trusted by others? What do you want to do? What features are you looking for? Do you want to make the calculations easier, get suggestions on how to cut down or is there another goal in mind? How do you want to access them? Some tools work better on some devices than others. Others will only work on a particular type of device. So, you should keep in mind what kind of device you would like to use them on.

		Explain: Now, let's think about putting money aside for emergencies. And by the end of this section, you should be able to: List the benefits of having emergency money
		Explain: Recent data suggests that over 40% of people in the UK don't have enough money saved to cover them for a month if they lose their income. It can be useful to have savings to fall back on when money is tight. Savings don't have to involve large amounts, just putting away a few pounds (or even £1) can soon start to build up.
		Ask: Which of the following amounts should you try to save for your emergency fund? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Three months expenses • Three months income • £1,000 Exercise: If you think the answer is a, stand on the left side of the room. If you think the answer is b, stand on the right side of the room. If you think the answer is c, stand at the back of the room.

		Facilitator note Comment on how many people thought of each answer as the correct one. If you have a small group, or learners with accessibility issues, you could ask them to hold their hands up instead. For online sessions, ask learners to type their answer (A, B or C) into the chat box Comment on how many people thought of each answer as the correct one. Explain: There is no right or wrong answer! It will very much depend upon your personal circumstances. Explain: Ideally, you should have three months of expenses saved up as an emergency fund, however, start yourself with a lower aim, and you can build up from there. Once you have done your budget, you should be able to see how much spare income you have left after your expenses. Set aside a regular amount of this to add to your savings account each month.
	Discussion Discuss the different ways you could start to save small amounts of money 	Ask: What are different ways you could start to save small amounts of money? Discuss the different methods you could try Explain The more you can save the quicker it will add up, but the amount you can save will be guided by your budget. Make sure your budget is up to date so that you can see clearly how much you can afford to save.

		However long it takes you to save the money, you'll be glad you did – if an emergency comes along, it will be there for you to use – and it will be a lot cheaper than having to take out a loan or credit card, both of which are expensive ways to borrow money . Once you reach your target, set yourself a new one but make sure you congratulate yourself for getting there, remember you started with nothing!
Pages 11 & 12	  Activity: Starting an Emergency Fund   Look at the two budgets shown on the Activity- Starting an Emergency Fund page in the workbook. Work out how much each person could put away into their emergency fund each month.   	Exercise: Look at the two budgets in your workbook and work out how much each person could put away into their emergency fund each month. Share and compare results. Facilitator note: Allow the learners to do this in pairs if they prefer. There's no exact right answer, the amount must be below the difference between incomings and outgoings.
